307 S. LAGUNA street.

San Francisco, May 31, 1887.

Dr. Callundan is one of San Francisco's most prominent physicians, whose testimony is especially valuable, from the fact that it is not theory, but personal experience that he has.

DR. J. P. GOODWIN,

407 Battery street.

San Francisco, May 29, 1887.

Dr. Goodwin is an old resident of the Bay area, and well-known among the mercantile community.

A CARD.

I take pleasure in certifying to the medical proficiency of Dr. James M. Langtry, who is not from a mere expert, but also a man's constant use of the art that I am convinced of its splendid results, qualities and highly praised. From my personal experience, I believe it will prove a blessing to those who use him.

MRS. LANGTRY.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19th.—At the time Mrs.
Langtry made application to become a citizen of the United States, she was informed by one of the proceeding, the Clerk of the Court having taken the records to her residence as she had no address. The Clerk of the Court had no record of her name, so she was told. The first of last month, drinking a large glassful of water, a day or two in the morning
she had a violent attack of pain in the head.
She was very ill, but had no time to call for anyone. I called on Dr. Langtry's testimonial card in the hotel, and he is here. It has been a splendid effect on me.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Police Court.

In the Police Court yesterday, when the case of Kate Dawson, accused of pregnancy, was called, Judge Henry Wagner appeared for her, and stated that on his advice she had, when the case came up in Court a few days ago, pleaded not guilty. Subsequently the Chief of Police advised her to plead guilty, so that she could get out of town, and on Monday she entered a plea of guilty, and on set objected to the settling of the case out of Court in this manner by the Chief, and asked permission for the defendant to withdraw from the court if she succeeded in getting not guilty. This was granted, and the case went over until the 23d. The case of James Brown, charged with an assault to murder, Berlin Feidhausen, was continued until August 1st. Fellow-soldiers will not be able to appear in Court for a week or ten days, and Brown, who has been on bond, has business calling him to the southern portion of the State for a while, and therefore can't be here for the trial of S. Posta, but the evidence against him was so slight that he was discharged when the prosecution rested.

Loring Washburn, arrested for violating the health ordinance, was discharged on payment of costs, the amount of which being abated.... The cases of Ah Sing and Ah Ling, for keeping opium dens; Ah Sing and Ah Dye, for visiting opium dens; The two men for being a common drunkard; and Ah Quon, for failing to give his name to the poll-tax collector, were continued until this morning.... Sam Kingman, adjudged guilty of a battery upon Mrs. E. W. Smith, and will be judgment at to-day's session. Wm. McDaniel, charged with having been drunk, forfeited his deposit.... Michael Stanton, also arrested for drunkenness, was discharged.... The cases of Mr. Hugh Cranmer and Julia Kehoe, for violating ordinance No. 12, relating to sidewalks, were set for hearing on the 22d.... Wm. Boyne was tried by jury for battery upon Alice Lee, who had also been arrested for battery upon the little daughter of Mr. Boyne.... The trouble seemed to grow out of the fact that some children had annoyed Lee, and he endeavored to get even by punishing Mr. Boyne's daughter.... Wm. Boyne was found not guilty. The charge against Al Lee was then dismissed.... William Nadermann's case of arson and attempting to burn insurance property at the Bakers' Home saloon were turned over to the sheriff, and the trial for the prosecution was partially taken, and 11:15 the matter was continued until 7:30 to morrow evening.

An Unpleasant Visitor.

An old resident of this city, who lives on H street, and in whose family there was a very tragic occurrence many years ago, has for the past year been annoyed by a ghostly visitant, who haunts the house night and day, generally making his or her presence known about midnight, though the gentleman has at noon had such reminders that he was not alone as having a paper that he was reading, and could see no one near him. At night there are loud and mysterious noises, as of heavy weights being thrown down, stamping of feet, noise of voices, etc., and the lights are half-out. The haunted individual declares that there is no "foolishness" about the matter, and has at various times invited friends to visit the scene of his woes, and manifestations for themselves. He has got used to it now, and gives them little attention; but occasionally, when he does not want to be annoyed, he has obtained quiet by doing some energetic swearing.

Equalization Matters.

The County Board of Equalization have only until and including Monday next to complete their work upon the assessment rolls of the county. They have given a great deal of attention to the assessments, have had their clerk and their seriatim and carefully examined all the work deemed erroneous. The Board has not taken any action in the matter, and we do not assume to speak by authority of its members, but consider the assertion that they are not to be increased in the assessment on the larger tracts of land, which was made by the Assessor in the premises, but will adopt the Assessor's increase of 10 per cent over last year's assessment.

THE WOODLAND MURDER CASE.

Circumstances Connected with the Killing of Lee Mow by Gee Wah.

The Woodland Democrat of Monday has the following account of the circumstances attending the fatal wounding of Lee Mow, or Sam, as the white people generally call him, in that place: "Sam was wounded to death Monday afternoon."

Sam, the man stabbed, and Gee Wah, the assassin, have for a long time been paying attention to a certain Chinese woman of questionable virtue, who occupies apartments in China Alley. Lee Mow, and one night three weeks ago Gee Wah, went to the woman's house, and finding Sam there, fired a shot at him through the window, but failed to hit the man. The bullet passed through the chair, but the master was unharmed, and the shooter was allowed to go. The ill-feeling however continued, and both men always went armed and on their guard. Last night Lee Mow, accompanied by his son, Lee Chih, and just reached a point thirty feet from the College street end of the alley, and about fifteen feet from the woman's door, when Gee Wah stepped into Sam's abdomen and took his heels. Sam gave a gasping cry, staggered around a few steps, and fell just inside the door of China Alley, and the assassin fled.
